About this overview. This document is an example of how the course might be taught. This page is drawn from the official course descriptions rather than a built Optima course, so the specific texts, units, and activities scholars see will be set by the teacher and may vary between the live school and On-Demand. Each teacher also leans into their own strengths and passions; the structure, expectations, and time commitment below are representative of the course as designed.

Latin 2 expands a scholar's command of Latin grammar and vocabulary through reading authentic classical texts. Translation skills grow more sophisticated, moving from simple passages toward longer and more complex works — the deliberate preparation for reading Rome's real authors. As a classical language course, the focus falls on reading and interpreting written Latin rather than conversation. In a VR- and AI-enhanced learning environment, scholars also research and present projects on Roman culture, history, politics, literature, and mythology, connecting their grammatical study to the world those texts reflect. Prerequisite: Latin 1.

THE YEAR AT A GLANCE

1 Reading Latin (Intermediate)

Selected readings of growing length and complexity, interpreted with context clues, vocabulary, and grammar — the heart of the course.

3 Translation Craft (all year)

Moving from decoding to genuine translation: accuracy, idiom, and faithfulness to the author's meaning.

5 Latin and English (woven through)

Structures and vocabulary that transfer between Latin and English — roots, derivatives, and the habits of careful language study.

2 Grammar and Vocabulary (all year)

Expanding the forms, constructions, and word stock needed to translate authentic authors.

4 Roman Culture and Civilization (all year)

Research projects and presentations (in English) on Roman culture, arts, history, politics, literature, and mythology.

A TYPICAL WEEK

- Daily Latin reading and translation, building from familiar passages toward authentic texts.
- Grammar and vocabulary study tied directly to what scholars are reading.
- Regular written work: translations, summaries, and supported interpretation of passages.
- Research projects and presentations on the Roman world, with VR experiences enriching the study.

On-Demand (asynchronous). Scholars move through the course at their own pace, with due dates to keep the year on track. An Optima teacher is available throughout for support, feedback, and grading.

TIME COMMITMENT

250 minutes / week

≈ 50 minutes a day, Monday–Friday

- Daily reading, translation, and grammar work fill most of the scheduled time.
- Project and presentation weeks may run longer.

WHAT SCHOLARS NEED

- A computer with reliable internet and access to Canvas.
- A Latin notebook for vocabulary, paradigms, and translations.
- Course texts as assigned by the teacher (typically provided in the course).

Live school. Live-school scholars take this same course on Optima's VR campus with a teacher and classmates, when offered live; for 2026–27 Latin 2 is listed as an On-Demand course.
